Gloria in excelsis Deo. We praise you, we bless you, we adore you, we glorify you, we give you thanks for your great glory, Lord God, almighty Father, Lord Jesus Christ, Only Begotten Son, Lord God, Lamb of God, Son of the Father, you take away the sins of the world, have mercy on us; you take away the sins of the world, receive our prayer; you are seated at the right hand of the Father, have mercy, have mercy on us. 2. How blessed the people who know your praise, who walk, O Lord, in the light of your face, who find their joy every day in your name, who make your justice their joyful acclaim.

3. “He will call out to me, ‘You are my father, my God, my God, the rock of my salvation.’ I will keep my faithful love for him always; with him my covenant shall last.”

SECOND READING | Acts 13:16-17, 22-25

GOSPEL ACCLAMATION | Jubilation Mass

GOSPEL | Matthew 1:1-25

HOMILY
I believe in one God, the Father almighty, maker of heaven and earth, of all things visible and invisible. I believe in one Lord Jesus Christ, the Only Begotten Son of God, born of the Father before all ages. God from God, Light from Light, true God from true God, begotten, not made, consubstantial with the Father; through him all things were made. For us men and for our salvation he came down from heaven, and by the Holy Spirit was incarnate of the Virgin Mary, and became man. For our sake he was crucified under Pontius Pilate, he suffered death and was buried, and rose again on the third day in accordance with the Scriptures. He ascended into heaven and is seated at the right hand of the Father. He will come again in glory to judge the living and the dead and his kingdom will have no end. I believe in the Holy Spirit, the Lord, the giver of life, who proceeds from the Father and the Son, who with the Father and the Son is adored and glorified, who has spoken through the prophets. I believe in one, holy, catholic and apostolic Church. I confess one Baptism for the forgiveness of sins and I look forward to the resurrection of the dead and the life of the world to come. Amen.

THE LORD’S PRAYER

Our Father, who art in heaven, hallowed be thy name;
thy kingdom come; thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven.
Give us this day our daily bread; and forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us;
and lead us not into temptation but deliver us from evil.

For the kingdom, the power, and the glory are yours now and forever.
Amen.

THE EXCHANGE OF PEACE

👥 The peace of the Lord be with you always.
All: And with your spirit.

AGNUS DEI | Mass of Creation

Lamb of God, you take away the sins of the world, have mercy on us.
To repeat
Last time
world, grant us peace.
SPIRITUAL COMMUNION

It is a long-held Catholic belief that when circumstances prevent one from receiving Holy Communion, it is possible to make an “Act of Spiritual Communion.” During this time when we are not able to celebrate the Eucharist together in person, Pope Francis invites Catholics to say this prayer as a source of grace. We can be assured that when we express our desire to receive Jesus in the Eucharist, God will be with us spiritually in a special way. Here is an Act of Spiritual Communion that we encourage you to pray as you participate in our live-streamed liturgies:

ACT OF SPIRITUAL COMMUNION

Loving Jesus,
I believe that you are present in the Most Holy Sacrament of the Eucharist.
I love you above all things,
and I desire to receive you into my soul.
Since I cannot at this moment receive you sacramentally, come at least spiritually into my heart.
I embrace you as if you were already there and unite myself wholly to you.
Never permit me to be separated from you.
Amen.

Long Ago (In the Bleak Midwinter)
Gustav Holst
arranged by Jake Naverud
(b. 1986)

In the bleak midwinter, frosty wind made moan, et earth stood hard as iron, water like a stone;
snow had fallen, snow on snow, snow on snow,
in the bleak midwinter, long ago.
Our God, heaven cannot hold him, nor earth sustain;
heaven and earth shall flee away when he comes to reign.
In the bleak midwinter a stable place sufficed
the Lord God Almighty, Jesus Christ.

Angels and archangels may have gathered there,
cherubim and seraphim thronged the air;
but his mother only, in her maiden bliss,
worshiped the beloved with a kiss.

What can I give him, poor as I am?
If I were a shepherd, I would bring a lamb;
if I were a Wise Man, I would do my part;
yet what I can I give him: give my heart.

(1685-1759)
Arranged by Richard Webster

1. Joy to the world! the Lord is come; Let earth receive her King; Let every heart prepare him room, And heav’n and nature sing, And heav’n and nature sing.
2. Joy to the world! the Savior reigns; Let us employ; While fields and floods, rocks, hills and plains Repeat the sounding joy, Repeat the sounding joy.
3. No more let sins and sorrows grow, Nor thorns increase; The glories of his righteousness flow, Far as the curse is found, Far as the curse is found.

Dear Friends,

I am finding it so hard to sit down and write this annual Christmas letter. Usually, it’s filled with hope and joy and all things “Word Made Flesh” and “Merry Christmas,” all accompanied by a warm welcome to Saint Cecilia Boston! This year, however, I feel like I’m reaching into the interior depths to write a Christmas message of hope and joy...but it just doesn’t feel easy. There are so many things for all of us to think about, remember, and reflect upon this past year. Take a moment now to think back, to feel back: “What has happened in our lives and families since last Christmas? Have you had the experience of something unexpected impact you? Has something truly gut-wrenching affected you or your family? Has there been an unexpected loss, a “curve ball of life” thrown, or a sudden and untimely absence created?

This has been my family’s (and my own) recent experience with the sudden and unexpected death of my brother Joe eight weeks ago. It feels like it has been eight months, eight years, and eight seconds...all at the same time. If you have ever had a similar experience or loss, whether at holidays or around a birthday, or even in the middle of August or July, it is one of those life events that, whenever it happens, just stops us in our tracks and invites (forces) us to reflect on life, what’s important, where we are, where we’re going, what we need to let go of, and what we might need to change or embrace. It is a time that makes us think about things eternal, spiritual, existential, and temporal. It is a time that can propel us together or steer us to be by ourselves. Times of loss like this invite us in our grieving to contemplate more deeply and maturely what it is we truly believe. Is there a heaven? Is there something after the last breath? Is there a God? Is this God loving and forgiving...a Jesus who is preparing a place for us? Will we see our loved ones? What’s it going to be like?

Do you ever think of these things, eternal things? What goes on in your (and my) religious and spiritual imagination? All I know is that in the absence, in the loss of a loved one there is an emptiness, a missing that is filled with memories and laughs, of sadness and grief, of “what-ifs,” and of good times. There are smiles and tears...and silence. And there is a deep abundance of love and gratitude. But there is only one way to grieve and to heal...and that is to go through all this...not skirt around it, not avoid it, not get busier, not get substance dependent or numb-er, or become cynical or depressed. There is only to feel deeply the sadness, honestly acknowledge the emptiness and be gentle with self and others in the process. As the Gospel of John says in the readings at Mass on Christmas morning, “The light shines in the darkness and the darkness has not overcome it.” The darkness cannot overcome our losses and unresolved grief. Jesus can. This is a more evolved understanding of what Christmas is. This Jesus we celebrate every year is the light and the hope, the strength and the promise we need in our times of loss and sadness. Calling on him, bringing him into the messy stables of our heart-broken lives, while hearing the words of the angel to the shepherds, “Do not be afraid...for a savior has been born for you who is Christ and Lord,” gives me hope, comfort, and peace. I hope it does for you too. I am sad but not hopeless. Our departed loved ones are okay. They are back with the Lord...they have just moved through this earthly experience sooner than we expected. But the sadness of their passing is still deep and palpable for us.

So may this Christmas be a time for each of us to mature and grow and deepen our faith and spirituality; to go beyond what Richard Rohr calls the “sentimental waiting for the baby Jesus,” to a place of belief that brings us through our sadness to a place of eventual healing and peace.

May this Christmas be a year of evolving belief that comes precisely from our losses and helps us to heal through our grief (recent or long-lasting). Thank you for all the support you have given my family and me over these past couple of months. It goes beyond anything we could ever adequately express to you. My heart is overflowing with gratitude this Christmas for your love and support and the many cards and letters, texts and calls, visits, mass cards, meals, and desserts! God bless all of you in this beautiful “far-flung” and “in-person” faith community of Saint Cecilia Boston! As the angel says, “Be not afraid.”

Love and Merry Christmas,

Fr. John
Welcome to Saint Cecilia Parish, a Roman Catholic community that gathers day by day, week by week, to know and make known the grace of God. By means of this abundant grace, we enjoy a diverse and close-knit parish family—young, old, rich, poor, of various ethnic origins and differing backgrounds. From our extraordinary music program to a growing children’s faith formation program; from the various liturgical ministries to the many opportunities for social outreach that the parish provides, Saint Cecilia is a vibrant community of faith, centered on prayer and worship that tries to keep the Gospel close to heart and to live by Jesus’ teachings.

Saint Cecilia Parish was established in 1888. At that time the Back Bay section of Boston along Commonwealth Avenue and Beacon Street was the residential section of the Yankee aristocracy. The maids (“Irish working out girls”) and coachmen who served these residents had long requested a church of their own. When Archbishop Williams granted their request and carved the parish from the territory of the Cathedral, they built a magnificent church out of their meager earnings. Our church building resides on the ancestral homeland of the Pawtucket and Massachusett tribal nations.

The church was dedicated on April 22, 1894. Its architecture is Romanesque, XII Century Norman. The main altar, notable for its massive simplicity, was carved from a single block of white Carrara marble. The painting in the center reredos is a reproduction of da Vinci’s The Last Supper, and the dome above is an array of 24K gold rosettes.

For the sixtieth anniversary celebration in 1954, a massive renovation project was undertaken. During this renovation, a statue of Pope Saint Pius X (canonized that same year) was imported from Italy and placed on the right side of the sanctuary. Above the statue are paintings from Pius’ life. On the left side is a statue of Saint Patrick, principal patron of the Archdiocese of Boston, and above it are three scenes from his life. Fourteen circular and sixteen square panels adorn the nave and arches of the church. The square panels are decorated with the symbols of Our Lady taken from the Litany of Loreto and the circular ones with symbols taken from the lives of the apostles. The great window of the Assumption—framed by the two oak cases of the organ—was installed in 1954 (the Marian Year) in spaces originally designed for windows but not until then used.

The original organ of 24 stops was built in 1902 by the Hutchings-Votey Organ Company, Opus 1465, and was rebuilt in 1954 with 32 stops. In 1998, Timothy Smith and Theodore Gilbert began a massive reconstruction of the organ. The current Smith & Gilbert Organ of 4 manuals, 54 ranks, and 3,084 pipes was dedicated on the Feast of Saint Cecilia, November 22, 1999.

Today we are experiencing something of an awakening within these old walls. Our numbers are increasing by 350 new households each year, and we continue to grow in our commitment to issues of peace, justice, and service to our neighbors, both near and far.

We’ve been right here on Belvidere Street, in the same building for over 125 years, but that does not mean that life here is stale, stagnant, or even predictable. We are proud to be entrusted with the legacy of Saint Cecilia Parish, where everything is the same, yet always changing; where we honor tradition while embracing the future; where God’s love makes all things new.

MERRY CHRISTMAS!

DONATIONS FOR CATHOLIC CHARITIES’ FOOD PANTRY

We hope that you will consider participating in this important ministry during the holiday and winter months when the budgets of those living in poverty are very stretched. The local economy might have improved for some of us, but the working poor and unemployed continue to face enormous economic challenges—especially in light of rising food prices.

Saint Cecilia has committed to providing these items to the Catholic Charities’ food pantry: Cheerios or corn flakes, peanut butter, white flour pasta and spaghetti, macaroni and cheese, canned tuna fish, canned chicken breast, cooking oil, and tomato sauce. While any canned or shelf-stable items are appreciated, it is particularly helpful when parishioners can help with the staples listed above. Because food is delivered only twice a month to the Catholic Charities’ food pantry, we cannot accept donations of baked items or produce in the narthex.

If you would like to send food donations directly to Catholic Charities through a service like Amazon, please have them delivered to: Beth Chambers, Catholic Charities, 185 Columbia Road, Boston, MA 02121

Bumper stickers and internet memes tend to spring up this time of year, beckoning onlookers to "remember the reason for the season" or exhort readers to "keep Christ in Christmas." While undoubtedly well-meaning in their origin, these slogans have also been coopted by conservative commentators in recent years as a kind of political cri de coeur that signals a made-up "war on Christmas."

Even though there is no such thing as a "war on Christmas," at least not in the United States, I do find the rallying cry "remember the reason for the season" very interesting, especially because of its inadvertently theological invitation. The question "Why did God become human?" has been the focus of theological reflection for as long as the earliest Christian community began proclaiming that the Word became flesh and made his dwelling among us (John 1:14). The most famous consideration of this question comes in the form of a treatise by St. Anselm of Canterbury, Cur Deus Homo? (literally: "Why the God-Man?").

The question is one of the divine ratio — that is "reason," "motivation" or "logic" — for the coming of Christ into the world. Anselm begins his exploration with the presumption that human sinfulness is the biggest issue at play. Subsequently, we need to be reconciled to God, something we cannot accomplish on our own. It can only, ultimately, be achieved by one who is both divine and human; hence the Incarnation.

For Anselm, sin is the reason for the season. He believes that if humanity had not sinned, if we had continued to enjoy the rectitude and right relationship Adam and Eve are said to have enjoyed with God before the Fall, the eternal Logos would never have needed to become human. The Incarnation is, for Anselm, a sign of God’s benevolence, but it is also entirely predicated on our disobedience, pride, sin and need for reconciliation.

This has come to be known in theological circles as the "majority opinion" about the divine reason for the Incarnation. Indeed, if you were to poll a selection of average Christians leaving church this Sunday and ask them: "Why did God become human?" the most common answer is likely to be "to save us from our sins."

Yet even as most Christians believe that the reason God became human is sin, this is hardly a theme in Christmas cards. And most secular and religious Christmas songs tend to be lovely, cheerful, and often upbeat. With a few exceptions, like the classic "God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen," there is hardly acknowledgement that the popular understanding of the "reason for the season" is human sinfulness.

I'm not suggesting we need more Lenten or Good Friday-themed Christmas songs. Rather, I think we have the whole focus on sin wrong in the first place. And I'm far from alone in that view.

The "majority opinion" about the divine ratio for the Incarnation is not the only view. There is a longstanding theological and spiritual tradition dating back to the New Testament itself that holds that even if we had not sinned, God would still have become human!

The technical language for this admittedly "minority opinion" (minority only because it is lesser known, not at all less true) is known as supralapsarianism. That’s just a fancy word for "not occasioned by or dependent on 'the Fall' " (from supra meaning "above" or "apart from" and lapsus meaning "the Fall"). The "majority opinion" is known as infralapsarian (from infra meaning "dependent on").

This longstanding, perfectly orthodox, entirely sound theological view argues that the Incarnation was always part of God’s plan for creation and that the Word becoming flesh... was never primarily motivated by human sin or anything else outside of God's absolute freedom.

The issue here is the unfortunate conflation that many people have made over the centuries between the need for reconciliation and the need for salvation. As the second century theologian St. Irenaeus of Lyons explained in his classic treatise Adversus Haereses, God's plan for creation always included God's plan for salvation, which he understood (following St. Paul) as the recapitulation of the whole of creation back to God's self.

When God created, God also willed to bring all of creation to glory through a finite share in the divine life, which is accomplished by the Incarnate Word and Holy Spirit.

Our Eastern Christian siblings have maintained this tradition much better than most of us Western Christians have. But many Western Christian theologians and saints have advanced the sound doctrine that the divine reason for the Incarnation is primarily about God's love, freedom and plan for creation and salvation long ahead of any chance humanity had to sin or exercise disobedience.

Take, for example, the contemporary of Anselm, a fellow Benedictine monk named Rupert of Deutz, who wrote several treatises in which he presented a supralapsarian argument for the Incarnation in response to the classic counterfactual question: "What if humanity had not sinned?" His answer is that there is plenty of reason to believe with confidence that God would still have become human, a position he defends with scripture and the theological tradition.

Or consider some of the greatest theologians at the nascent universities of Paris and Oxford in the early 13th century, such as the Franciscan Alexander of Hales, Dominican St. Albert the Great or the secular master Robert Grosseteste, who served as the chancellor of Oxford before becoming Bishop of Lincoln. Like Rupert before them, they each offered their own contributions to the supralapsarian position on the Incarnation.

Perhaps the most famous medieval contributor to this theological tradition is the Franciscan Blessed John Duns Scotus, the scholar who also developed the philosophical argument that would eventually become the Catholic framework for the dogma of the Immaculate Conception of Mary.

Many modern theologians and spiritual writers, both Catholic and Protestant, have also contributed to this tradition, including Jesuit Fr. Karl Rahner, Karl Barth, Wolfhart Pannenberg, Trappist Fr. Thomas Merton, St. Joseph Sr. Elizabeth Johnson, among others.

None of these historical or contemporary figures deny the reality of sin or the need we have to be reconciled to God, which is indeed accomplished by Jesus Christ through his life, death and resurrection. The issue centers on not putting the proverbial cart before the horse, confusing one of the effects of the Incarnation for the primary or exclusive reason for it.

Just because Christ accomplishes our reconciliation with God, a need originating from our sinfulness, does not mean that is the only reason or even the primary reason God became human.

Love. Love is the reason God wanted to enter the world as one of us, to draw near to us in the most intimate way possible: taking on our very materiality (sarx), our very vulnerability (Philippians 2:6-11), our shared experience of human relationship in this world. If we humans had exercised our free will in obedience and never sinned, we wouldn't have needed redemption or reconciliation for sin, but God would still have entered the world as one of us out of love and the desire to bring us and all of creation to share in God's life in salvation.

I think the way Merton summarizes this in his book New Seeds of Contemplation says it best:

> The Lord would not only love His creation as Father, but He would enter into His creation, emptying Himself, hiding Himself, as if He were not God but a creature. Why should He do this? Because He loved His creatures, and because He could not bear that His creatures should merely adore him as distant, remote, transcendent, and all powerful.

Again, it is divine love that is the primary motive. Not only can we give thanks that Christ has reconciled us to God because of our sin, but also, and more fundamentally, we can praise God at Christmas for the divine love and absolute freedom reflected in God's desire to draw close to us as one of us from all eternity.

Now that is a reason for the season worthy of Handel's "Hallelujah" chorus or "O Holy Night" or even a bumper sticker.
