GOSPEL ACCLAMATION | Mass of Christ, Light of the Nations

GOSPEL | Matthew 17: 1-9

HOMILY
I believe in one God,
the Father almighty,
maker of heaven and earth,
of all things visible and invisible.
I believe in one Lord Jesus Christ,
the Only Begotten Son of God,
born of the Father before all ages.
God from God, Light from Light,
true God from true God,
begotten, not made, consubstantial with the Father;
through him all things were made.
For us men and for our salvation
he came down from heaven, and by the Holy Spirit was incarnate of the Virgin Mary and became man.
For our sake he was crucified under Pontius Pilate,
he suffered death and was buried,
and rose again on the third day
in accordance with the Scriptures.
He ascended into heaven and is seated at the right hand of the Father. He will come again in glory to judge the living and the dead and his kingdom will have no end.
I believe in the Holy Spirit, the Lord, the giver of life,
who proceeds from the Father and the Son,
who with the Father and the Son is adored and glorified,
who has spoken through the prophets.
I believe in one, holy, catholic and apostolic Church.
I confess one Baptism for the forgiveness of sins and I look forward to the resurrection of the dead and the life of the world to come.
Amen.

MEMORIAL ACCLAMATION | Mass of the Angels and Saints

THE LORD'S PRAYER

Our Father, who art in heaven, hallowed be thy name; thy kingdom come; thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread; and forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us; and lead us not into temptation but deliver us from evil.

For the kingdom, the power, and the glory are yours now and forever. Amen.

SPIRITUAL COMMUNION

It is a long-held Catholic belief that when circumstances prevent one from receiving Holy Communion, it is possible to make an “Act of Spiritual Communion.” When we are unable to be physically present at the celebration of the Eucharist, Pope Francis invites Catholics to say this prayer as a source of grace. We can be assured that when we express our desire to receive Jesus in the Eucharist, God will be with us spiritually in a special way. Here is an Act of Spiritual Communion that we encourage you to pray as you participate in our live-streamed liturgies:

ACT OF SPIRITUAL COMMUNION

Loving Jesus, I believe that you are present in the Most Holy Sacrament of the Eucharist.
I love you above all things, and I desire to receive you into my soul.
Since I cannot at this moment receive you sacramentally, come at least spiritually into my heart. I embrace you as if you were already there and unite myself wholly to you.
Never permit me to be separated from you. Amen.
1. I want to walk as a child of the light.
2. I want to see the brightness of God.
3. I’m looking for the coming of Christ.

I want to follow Jesus.
I want to look at Jesus.
I want to be with Jesus.

God set the stars to give light to the world. The Clear sun of righteousness shine on my path. And When we have run with patience the race, We star of my life is Jesus.

show me the way to the Father.
shall know the joy of Jesus.

In him there is no darkness at all. The night and the day are both alike. The Lamb is the light of the city of God.

Shine in my heart, Lord Jesus.
Christ in Me Arise

Refrain

Christ in me a-rise and dis-pel all the dark-ness.

Christ in me a-rise with your pow-er and your strength.

Christ in me pour out your bless-ing and heal-ing.

Christ in me a-rise and I shall rise with you.

Verses

1. Be now my vi-sion; o-pen these eyes, show-ing me all that I must see.

2. Be now my foot-steps, lead-ing the way,
    tak-ing me where I must go.

On-ward to the king-dom, you are the way.

Bridge

You know my heart and you know my ways, you who formed me in my moth-er’s womb. I live and move in you, my whole be-ing thrives in you.

Be thou my vision, O Lord of my heart;
naught be all else to me, save that thou art.
Thou my best thought, by day or by night,
waking or sleeping, thy presence my light.

Riches I heed not, nor vain empty praise;
thou mine inheritance, now and always.
Thou and thou only, first in my heart,
Ruler of heaven, my treasure thou art.

Be thou my wisdom, be thou my true word;
I ever with thee, and thou with me, Lord.
Born of thy love, thy child may I be,
thou in me dwelling and I one with thee.

Welcome to Saint Cecilia Parish, a Roman Catholic community that gathers day by day, week by week, to know and make known the grace of God. By means of this abundant grace, we enjoy a diverse and close-knit parish family—young, old, rich, poor, of various ethnic origins and differing backgrounds. From our extraordinary music program to a growing children’s faith formation program; from the various liturgical ministries to the many opportunities for social outreach that the parish provides, Saint Cecilia is a vibrant community of faith, centered on prayer and worship that tries to keep the Gospel close to heart and to live by Jesus’ teachings.

Saint Cecilia Parish was established in 1888. At that time the Back Bay section of Boston along Commonwealth Avenue and Beacon Street was the residential section of the Yankee aristocracy. The maids (“Irish working out girls”) and coachmen who served these residents had long requested a church of their own. When Archbishop Williams granted their request and carved the parish the parish provides, Saint Cecilia is a vibrant community of faith, centered on prayer and worship that tries to keep the Gospel close to heart and to live by Jesus’ teachings.

The maids (“Irish working out girls”) and coachmen who served these residents had long requested a church of their own. When Archbishop Williams granted their request and carved the parish from the territory of the Cathedral, they built a magnificent church out of their meager earnings. Our church building resides on the ancestral homeland of the Pawtucket and Massachusetts tribal nations.

The church was dedicated on April 22, 1894. Its architecture is Romanesque, XII Century Norman. The main altar, notable for its massive simplicity, was carved from a single block of white Carrara marble. The painting in the center reredos is a reproduction of da Vinci’s The Last Supper, and the dome above is an array of 24K gold rosettes.

For the sixtieth anniversary celebration in 1954, a massive renovation project was undertaken. During this renovation, a statue of Pope Saint Pius X (canonized that same year) was imported from Italy and placed on the right side of the sanctuary. Above the statue are paintings from Pius’ life. On the left side is a statue of Saint Patrick, principal patron of the Archdiocese of Boston, and above it are three scenes from his life.

Fourteen circular and sixteen square panels adorn the nave and arches of the church. The square panels are decorated with the symbols of Our Lady taken from the Litany of Loreto and the circular ones with symbols taken from the lives of the apostles. The great window of the Assumption—framed by the two oak cases of the organ—was installed in 1954 (the Marian Year) in spaces originally designed for windows but not until then used.

The original organ of 24 stops was built in 1902 by the Hutchings-Votey Organ Company, Opus 1465, and was rebuilt in 1954 with 32 stops. In 1998, Timothy Smith and Theodore Gilbert began a massive reconstruction of the organ. The current Smith & Gilbert Organ of 4 manuals, 54 ranks, and 3,084 pipes was dedicated on the Feast of Saint Cecilia, November 22, 1999.

Today we are experiencing something of an awakening within these old walls. Our numbers are increasing by 350 new households each year, and we continue to grow in our commitment to issues of peace, justice, and service to our neighbors, both near and far.

We’ve been right here on Belvidere Street, in the same building for over 125 years, but that does not mean that life here is stale, stagnant, or even predictable. We are proud to be entrusted with the legacy of Saint Cecilia Parish, where everything is the same, yet always changing; where we honor tradition while embracing the future; where God’s love makes all things new.

First Communion Class
We are pleased to have twenty-eight students in this year’s First Communion class. They received the sacrament of reconciliation three weeks ago and beginning last Sunday, and until they receive First Communion on Mother’s Day weekend, the students and their parents will be sitting together in the front of the church at the 9:30 Mass. The children are currently studying the parts of the Mass so that they can more fully participate in our liturgies. We ask all members of the Saint Cecilia community to pray that our First Communicants and all children in our Faith Formation program continue to experience God and Jesus Christ as real presences in their lives.

National Catholic Sisters Week
National Catholic Sisters Week (NCSW) is an annual celebration that takes place from March 8 to 14. This is a week to honor women religious and to shine the spotlight on the lives and ministries of these incredible women by recognizing their contributions to the Church and to society. Our community is blessed to have two women religious in our midst: Sr. Ann Marie Cook, SNDdeN, a member of the Sisters of Notre Dame de Namur and Sr. Mary Ann Hinsdale, IHM, a member of the Sisters, Servants of the Immaculate Heart of Mary. Say a prayer for them and for all women religious—they are the heroes of the Church!

High School Confirmation Retreat
This weekend our high students preparing for confirmation are on their retreat pondering the idea of the Church as the "Body of Christ." From there, inspired by St. Teresa of Avila they will reflect on what it might look like to be the eyes, ears, mouth, hands, and feet of Christ on earth. We pray for these confirmation candidates in a special way this weekend; may they always feel that they are welcome and belong to their Church as members of the Body of Christ.

First Anniversary of the War in Ukraine
It has been a year since the first explosions rocked Ukraine and we pray that God grants peace and protection to the people of Ukraine. Give them strength and courage to defend what is good, right, and holy. Please keep them safe from harm and provide for all their needs, both temporal and spiritual.

Sunday, March 5, 2023, at 4:00 p.m. ET

The Remote Fellowship Community, a.k.a. Far Flung Flock, is excited to welcome yet another ministry leader and member of Saint Cecilia Parish as a special guest. Some of you may even remember Mark Lippolt as the guest at our very first coffee hour in November 2021, when he presented the history of Saint Cecilia.

Mark has been a parishioner at Saint Cecilia for more than 30 years. A native “New Yawker,” Mark has lived in the Greater Boston area since he arrived in Massachusetts to attend Brandeis University many, many, MANY years ago. At the Parish, he is the long-time 2nd-grade catechist, member of the Parish Finance and Pastoral Councils, and he spearheads the Hunger & Homelessness Ministry. Deeply involved in the civic life of Boston, Mark currently serves as the Treasurer of Women’s Lunch Place and he serves on the Advisory Boards of Community Servings (where he is a former Board Chair) and the Huntington YMCA (the oldest in the country) and on the steering committee for the Boston Chapter of Catholic Relief Services. In his spare time, he holds down a full-time paid position as the Assistant Manager of a residential real estate office in Brookline, MA.

We are excited to welcome Mark once again and look forward to hearing all about the wonderful things his ministry is accomplishing!

If you have joined our monthly calls in the past, you will automatically receive the Zoom link for this call a few days in advance of the meeting. If you’re interested in joining the Far-Flung Flock’s mailing list to receive the monthly Zoom link, please email Mary Ann Gallagher at gallaghercomms@gmail.com. Thank you!

HELP THE CHILDREN AND FAMILIES HELPED BY CATHOLIC CHARITIES’ FOOD PANTRY IN DORCHESTER

As you may know, the Catholic Charities’ Yawkey Center in Dorchester also operates an infant and young child’s daycare center. Two years ago, the pantry received a donation from a 4-year-old parishioner who sent cake mix through Amazon so that one of the families who receive assistance from Catholic Charities could make a birthday cake. That has sparked an interest in creating a “Birthday Pantry” within the food pantry so that families in need can have some of the items needed to have a birthday celebration for their children.

Here is the Catholic Charities’ Amazon Wish List: https://www.amazon.com/hz/wishlist/ls/2VUjJ5qQfQ3P9?ref_=wl_share

Most of the items are reasonably priced and we hope that, by everyone doing just a little, we can turn this 4-year-old’s generosity into an ongoing program. Let’s see if we can amplify young Owen’s giving by adding to it in the next week. And if you send an item through Amazon, consider putting in a note saying, “Great idea, Owen!”

As you may know, February is Black History Month—an annual celebration of the achievements of African Americans and a time for recognizing their central role in U.S. history. As we enter into March, we want to emphasize that Black history doesn't start and end in February. Here are some resources compiled by members of our Race Equity Team (RET) for Black History Month and we will continue sharing information and resources from their team throughout the Lenten and Easter season.

Beyond providing articles and books to read, we also encourage you to support local, Black-owned businesses including restaurants, hair salons, barbershops, and gyms.

Supporting local Black-owned businesses is not only a way to promote economic growth and sustainability within our community, but it is also in keeping with the mission of the Church. As Catholics, we are called to stand in solidarity with our marginalized brothers and sisters who are oppressed and excluded from the fullness of life. Catholic Social Teaching emphasizes the importance of upholding the common good and promoting the life and dignity of all individuals, particularly those who are most vulnerable. Black-owned businesses are often overlooked and under-resourced*, but when we support them, we are helping to create a more just and equitable society and are doing our part to promote justice, equality, and human dignity for all people. Additionally, Catholic Social Teaching emphasizes the principle of subsidiarity, which holds that decisions and actions should happen at the most local level possible. Supporting local Black-owned businesses aligns with this principle by promoting self-determination and autonomy within the Black community. All around, it's a win-win situation!

* African Americans make up more than 13% of the U.S. population but only own 7% of the businesses. The answer to this question will vary depending on whom you ask, but most agree that racism, discrimination, and predatory lending are all factors because many aspiring Black business owners have been unfairly turned down by banks when applying for small business loans. On average, big banks approve around 60% of loans applied for by white small-business owners, 50% by Latinx small-business owners, and 29% by Black small-business owners. Another factor is that there is a lack of economic and business resources in African American communities. This leads to a lack of education on how to properly start and manage a successful business.

When Lent arrives each year, I find myself in conversations about fasting with other Catholic women. We exchange plans for our seasonal food abstinence—small meals and no meat on Fridays, often accompanied by a fast from sweets, or alcohol, or snacking between meals.

Then, inevitably, someone voices what many of us have privately considered: “Hopefully this will help me lose another few pounds.”

Such admissions are often accompanied by some self-deprecating acknowledgement that weight loss is not supposed to be the goal of our seasonal penance. Nevertheless, sympathetic nods and similar confessions arise in response. Year after year, these conversations evince a tension between our perceptions of what fasting ought to be and our experience of it as Catholic women in the contemporary United States.

These conversations inspired my search for resources aimed at helping Catholic women fast in a setting where we face relentless pressures to conform to society's young, white, able-bodied, effortless, slender ideal.

What I found, however, are commentaries on fasting that oversimplify women’s experiences and set up requirements for fasting that are unattainable for many, if not most. No wonder we experience this tension.

In response this year, I urge Catholics to share more realistic portraits of women’s experiences and a more inclusive description of this Lenten practice.

Popular Catholic writers teach that a singular focus on God motivates fasting, while more superficial, worldly aspirations drive dieting. Emphasizing these contrasting motives, commentators position fasting and dieting as mutually exclusive: One must dispense with body hatred in order to fast.

We see this in Matthew Kelly's bestselling Rediscover Catholicism, where he emphasizes "how different the reasons for fasting are from the reasons for dieting." He explains, "We do not fast to impress other people. We fast to cultivate the inner life," whereas dieting "is devoid of the strongest motives and reasons."

Charles Murphy draws a similar distinction in The Spirituality of Fasting, where he describes fasting as "focused on God and not ourselves" while "sharply delineating it from dieting and medically supervised fasts" that focus "only on the body." For many, Murphy bemoans, "dieting has replaced fasting."

A problem with these messages is that they often instruct Catholics to eschew social pressures as if this were easy. Yet, if the experience of my friends and me is any indication, separating one's desire for greater communion with God from one's engrained wish to conform to society's body ideals is more complicated than these commentaries suggest.

Women are not helpless victims of society's messages, but decades of research on women's body image attest to the fact that we are profoundly shaped by the culture. A Glamour magazine study found that 97% of women reported to having negative thoughts about their bodies each day. On average, they had 13 of these thoughts daily.

Mary DeTurris Poust's treatment of fasting in Cravings is exceptional for its attention women's struggles against society's pervasive body demands. However, when she advises that "fasting requires an underpinning of prayer to prevent it from morphing into a diet designed to make us more appealing by worldly standards," she communicates the troubling message that the motives of fasting and dieting are mutually exclusive.

This calls into question whether women who struggle with habitual disdain for their bodies can fast at all. If we accept that these motives are mutually exclusive, then every Catholic woman who longs to meet society's beauty demands through food abstinence is disqualified from fasting—at least until divine intervention untethers her from society's body demands, as DeTurris Poust suggests.

There are, of course, circumstances in which individuals should be disqualified from fasting. The U.S. bishops advise that individuals with poor health should not take up this discipline, an exemption that presumably applies to those with dangerous eating disorders.

But most Catholic women who struggle with society's body demands are not in this situation. The message that fasting requires pure motives disqualifies the scores of healthy Catholic women who negotiate these social pressures every day.

This Lent is an opportunity for Catholics to share a different message about fasting, one that reflects realistic accounts of women's experiences and a more inclusive portrait of the practice.

To start, talk about fasting should be grounded in a clear-eyed account of Catholic women's lived experiences. In a society where women are immersed in messages that exhort them to conform to an unrealistic standard of beauty, desires to attain it are unfortunately commonplace. It is time we listen to women and acknowledge that these desires frequently coexist with a Catholic's desire to deepen communion with God through fasting.

Admitting this, Catholics need not conclude that fasting for God and dieting for beauty are one and the same. Catholic writers are right that distinct motives define fasting and dieting, but they are misguided to insist that these motives are mutually exclusive. We can communicate that fasting is a discipline distinctly motivated by the church's collective striving toward deeper communion with God while also affirming that Catholics need not be free of all other motivations in order to participate. God's grace can work in us, even when we come as we are.

Yet Catholics should not acquiesce to oppressive beauty standards. Lent is an opportunity for us to start conversations about society's body demands. The sexist, racist, ableist and consumeristic realities of society's unrealistic ideal require extended analysis and the response of collective action. Yet few Catholic communities organize to address them. Why not start now?

To counteract harmful beauty demands, Lisa Isherwood suggests in her book The Fat Jesus that Christian communities follow Jesus's example by engaging in "celebratory eating." Perhaps Catholic communities could enhance Lenten fish fries with education about society's detrimental body ideal and with a celebration of appetites — the very appetites that Catholic women are told to suppress for the sake of becoming something they are not.

Local communities should also reflect on Christianity's complicity in perpetuating the body standards that permeate society. For instance, we should note the images in our local parish bulletins, websites and even worship spaces. Do they feature individuals who embody society's prevailing beauty ideal in shape, size, class and color? We should diversify these images to celebrate all bodies, especially those typically underappreciated.

Catholics can also host seasonal book clubs exploring one of a number of excellent books on Christianity and body image, such as Isherwood's The Fat Jesus or Michelle Mary Lelwica's Shameful Bodies. Such gatherings might occasion insightful reflection on the social dynamics of body hatred, personal experiences of fasting, and ideally, some lasting social action.
